NHI students emerge with flying colours

Muscat - As many as five students of National Hospitality Institute (NHI) have secured distinction in the exams for IATA/UFTAA foundation course recently. In addition to this, seven students of the institute have successfully completed hotel management diploma programme of American Hotel and Lodging Association (AH&LA). They have joined reputable international hotels for their internships.

The IATA/UFTAA programme jointly offered by International Air Transport Association along with the United Federation of Travel Agents' Association is a comprehensive travel and tourism training programme. NHI has been delivering this programme in Oman for the last 12 years, said a press release.

NHI has been running the internationally accredited American Hotel & Lodging Association Hotel Management Diploma for over two years now, both on a full-time and part-time basis. The full-time diploma course has attracted a very diverse group of students.

"The high calibre of internationally accredited training delivered by NHI has once again proved that it is the right choice for hospitality and travel training in Oman. We look forward to hearing the success stories of our graduates from their internships and future careers," said Robert MacLean, principal, NHI.
