Cabin crew students take off

SPREADING WINGS: The new cabin crew students with Robert MacLean, principal, NHI; and Ayesha Godhino, cabin crew instructor.

MUSCAT — Another group of cabin crew students have won their wings when they graduated from Gulf Travel School at NHI.

These students have been studying both practical and theory for the last six months and are now ready to take off.

Their course consisted of customer service, conflict handling, food safety, cabin crew skills and HSE, all certified to international standards.

These students will now be applying to the airlines in Oman for future employment after investing in their own future.

Gulf Travel School is an IATA-approved training facility under the name of NHI, which is well-known in Oman for its excellence in training for the hospitality and travel industry.
